REGION'S BUILDERS BOOSTED BY NEW APPOINTMENT

The National Federation of Builders (NFB) in Eastleigh, Hampshire has strengthened its support for local construction companies with the appointment of Gill Tavender as regional services manager.

Gill has been with the Federation for three years as regional operations assistant. In her new role, Gill will be responsible for providing advice and specialist business services to hundreds of contractors and builders across the region.

Gary Amer regional director for NFB in the South, said: "Running a successful contracting business isn't getting any easier and it's our job to provide fast, efficient and meaningful support with the day-to-day issues and policies, allowing our members to concentrate on growth and expansion.

"We're investing heavily in the right people to help our Federation move forward with confidence and deliver the results expected from our members. Gill has already built strong relationships with members across the region and has clearly demonstrated her ability to understand the needs of businesses and communicate effectively with a wide range of audiences."

Nationally, the NFB represents some 2,000 builders and contractors in across England and Wales. In addition to providing specialist legal, insurance and taxation support, the Federation, with a network of eight regional offices, lobbies local, national and European government on a range of issues to sustain positive trading conditions for members.
