Overview

The Social Value Act was introduced to transform the way money is spent on public services. It does this by requiring the commissioners of services (including construction and maintenance services) to consider how procured services could have an even further reaching and positive impact on the local community.

Understanding the Social Value Act is key for those working or looking to win work with local and public authorities. The training will cover:

- Introduction to the act and its purpose
- Examples of added social value
- Strategies for applying Social Value to your business
- Monitoring, capturing reporting and communicating social value

Understanding the Modern Slavery Act is key for those working or looking to win work with local and public authorities. The training will cover:

- Fairness, inclusion and respect (FIR)
- Company policy and action plan
 - Why modern slavery matters
 - What is modern slavery
 - Warning signs
 - Addressing modern slavery
 - Dealing with suspected modern slavery
